Notes

1. The BACtrack Mobile breathalyzer is free as long as you have a paid monthly subscription. If you complete 3 months on your plan, the device is yours to keep, free of charge. If you decide to end your subscription before 3 months, you can either return the device to us or purchase it outright at a discount.
2. Devices cost $549-$749 to buy or $19-$29/month to rent (only available on 120 or 365-day commitments). Rental price depends on plan commitment length.

Notes

- BACtrack View is used by hundreds of courts across the US and Canada, meets the two key standards US courts use for evidence: the Daubert and Frye standards.
 - As the Justice Speakers Institute, an independent judicial organization, stated: “[BACtrack View] constitutes a scientifically reliable and legally admissible alcohol monitoring platform.”

Sobriety Verification

Notes

1. Monitors verify a Tester's identity by watching videos taken of tests. Facial recognition is not needed.
2. Facial recognition happens on the back-end; Users do not typically receive the visual proof of tests themselves, and instead receive a checkmark on the test result.
3. Soberlink only provides photos of tests upon request. The first photo is free; photo reports after that cost $25 each.
4. Optional GPS location sharing can be turned on or off in the app.

The Breathalyzers

Notes

- While both services' breathalyzers use a professional-grade fuel cell sensor, BACtrack View's device is around 80% smaller and 60% lighter than both Soberlink breathalyzers.
 - This could be important, especially when you have to carry the breathalyzer around with you for testing throughout the day.
- Before starting alcohol monitoring, many Testers don't realize that their breathalyzer comes with a mouthpiece, which they need to attach before they test.
 - BACtrack's mouthpiece was carefully designed to be small, so blowing in public is discreet. Soberlink's mouthpiece is a 4.5-inch plastic tube.
